

Favorite Feature

“Right Click”

With your mouse, right click and select “Open Link in New Tab.”

This will allow you to navigate from tab to tab on your tool bar without having to refresh the page, resulting in easier work flow.

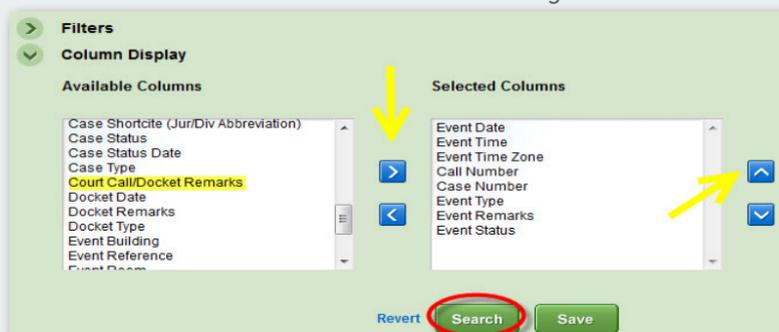

Helpful Hint:

Column Display

To view the ‘Court Call Docket Remarks’ field in a Diary Events list, follow these steps:

- Click on the Diary Events Tab
- Click on ‘Column Display’
- View ‘Available Columns’
- Scroll down and select ‘Court Call Docket Remarks’
- Add to ‘Selected Columns’ using the arrows
- Use up arrow to select desired column position
- Click on ‘Search’ button to review the reorganized columns

For additional assistance call customer support: 312.644.7207 (opt 2)

JURALAW'S NYC

While it may only be March according to the calendar, 2014 has been quite a year already for JuraLaw®! In February, our JuraLaw® team introduced JuraLaw® to the New York legal market at the Legal Tech Show in New York.

There was one main objective for showcasing JuraLaw® in the Empire State which was to announce that it now includes New York State court calendar and docket information, as well as New York federal and bankruptcy court calendar data, directly obtained from the courts.

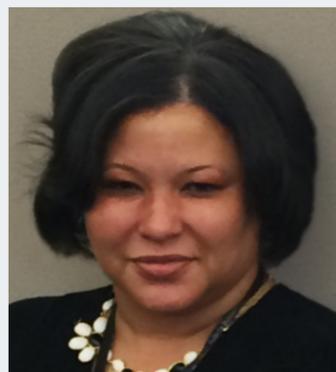

Another important legal technology trade show is just around the corner, the annual ABA Tech Show at the Hilton Chicago from March 27-29. Visit JuraLaw® at booth 108 for a big announcement regarding document management and more!

Other upcoming shows that JuraLaw® will be participating in include:

Legal Tech West Coast (Los Angeles, CA):
June 23-24 (Booth336)

International Legal Technology Association Show (Nashville, TN):
August 19-21 (Booth 633)

People You Should Know

April Colone

Senior Customer Support Representative

April Colone has been employed with Law Bulletin(LB) for nine years. Currently, as the Senior Customer Support Representative, she reports directly to Glenn Marsa. While April may have helped you with a general Access Plus or JuraLaw question, she is especially good at acting as a liaison between LB's IT department and the LB Customer Support group to address your technology questions. For example, April assumed the logistical lead role on many migrations from DM2000 to JuraLaw®, especially those including Outlook subscriptions. April might also be familiar to some of you because she often conducts the Access Plus and JuraLaw® training classes we offer on a monthly basis.

Prior to joining Law Bulletin, April worked in the accounting and legal department of Belt Railroad Company of Chicago (BRC) for over a decade. In-House Counsel Attorney Tim Coffee was a mentor to April while she worked at the largest switching terminal in the country, and essentially introduced her to everything related to legal docketing during her twelve years at BRC.

As irony would have it, April was thumbing through the classified section of the Chicago Daily Law Bulletin when she came across a job listing for a Customer Support Representative for Access Plus. The rest, they say, is history.

You may not only see April at Law Bulletin in the future, but as a caterer as well! She has been working towards a culinary certificate at Robert Morris College in order to start a side business in her spare time.

Maureen Gleason

National Account Manager

Maureen Gleason is a National Account Manager. She currently works with the JuraLaw® team in sales and development. With her extensive docketing experience, she also supports current clients and will be involved with the conversions and implementation of JuraLaw® in law firms throughout the country.

Maureen has worked in the legal industry for over 30 years. She has focused the last 16 of those years in the docketing arena. She has been involved in selling, implementing and consulting to many of the AMLaw 100 law firms about best practices, risk management and major docketing program rollouts. Maureen has trained docketing personnel and paralegals to understand court-rules based systems, worked with attorneys, including practice group leaders, to determine necessary reporting requirements and taught information systems and information technology personnel how to establish best docketing practices for mitigating risk.

Additionally, Maureen brings a wealth of administrative, accounting and financial experience along with a practical approach to day-to-day law firm management, which only comes from working in the trenches. As a law firm administrator for 15 years, Maureen was involved with all time, billing and accounting issues for a mid-size Chicago law firm with branch offices in California and New Jersey. As a result, she possesses an unparalleled appreciation of the legal community's needs for internal and external reporting, data management and day-to day operations.

Maureen's clients value her experience, expertise and dedication.

According to Maureen, her only real claim to fame is that she is the proud mother of 7 beautiful children.